BY PHILIP POTTER

In January Goody left a post as Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for International Affairs to become secretary of a newly formed international peace corps secretariat.

But Goodwin says he will close the secretariat under the Senate system, meaning the House this week denied to keep him and his staff of ten operating during the next few months.

The secretariat was formed here last January 1 and has been instrumental in helping the Netherlands, Norway, West Germany, Denmark, New Zealand and Argentina establish their own peace corps. Ten of these countries this year will send 150 volunteers into the field and next year will have 1,500.

Department is paying salaries in the amount of $100,000 out of its own funds. It was not a professional fee, but it would be considered such.

Legislation Urged

Meanwhile, the administration is asking Congress to pass authorizing legislation that would make the commission a permanent part of the United States Peace Corps, financed out of its funds.
